- The Maids Head - a bustling and busy pub in the heart of old town, is a popular live music venue. Known from 1965 as 'Ye Olde Maydens Heade' it has been rechristened by present landlord Peter Lewland as 'The Maids Head'. Research shows the pub has been faithfully returned to it's original name 'The Maids Head' circa 1748 as recorded by then landlord in occupation Thomas Webster. While the building is 18th century, the name dates back to the 1500's and may be in honour of Queen Elizabeth I.

- The Conservancy Board and Port & Pilotage Authority - was founded as a result of the damage to the 'Wick Bay' which ran aground in 1889. Efforts to refloat her broke her back, and the corporation of King's Lynn was held responsible for clearing the wreck. The Board was established by the King's Lynn Conservancy Act of 1897 to safeguard the river and oversee the safe marking of the channel, acting also as the Pilotage Authority.

- Denver Windmill - is one of Norfolk most iconic windmills, and a much loved element of the Fenland community. During WWII the mill also ground munitions parts, and inadvertently served the Luftwaffe well, using it as a landmark for WWII German air raids, thus avoiding being bombed itself. New tenants Samantha and Graham Styles have embraced their roles with gusto. With care and imagination they are forging links with the mill's colourful past to make it the modern day landmark that it deserves to be - and restore it to it's former glory.

- Red Mount Chapel - is a three storey octagonal structure on a hillock in 'The Walks' public park, built in 1485 during the reign of Richard III. Being a wayside chapel for English and European Christian pilgrims disembarking at Kings Lynn, on their way to England's second most holy shrine after Canterbury - the Shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham.

Four miracles happened here - the Mount survived the Reformation, the Civil War, German bombing in 1942, and received a Heritage Lottery grant to restore the Chapel and the Walks.

'The Priory' - is the oldest residential building in Downham Market, with some parts dating back to the 13th century. At a school in Bridge St. on the site of Reeds Department Store, local legend has it that Priory friars taught a student who became Admiral Lord Horatio Nelson. Latterly the Priory has been a solicitors office, before becoming hearth and home to Birgit, Barry, Oliver-James and Amelie-Jade...and of course - man's best friend - Prince!

- The Legacy Dukes Head Hotel - a 4 star hotel overlooking King's Lynn's Tuesday Market Place - has been a grade II listed building since December 1951. Built in 1683 for member of parliament John Turner by architect and builder Henry Bell, who also designed and built the local Customs House. The Legacy Dukes Head Hotel, standing on the site of an ancient inn called 'The Gryffin' offers great food and hospitality alongside modern technology and free Wi Fi. - The Customs House - was built as a merchant exchange in 1683 by architect Henry Bell, who had been recruited by the town's mayor - Sir John Turner. Bell also built the Dukes Head Hotel in Tuesday Market Place. While the sea-borne trading port had been dominated by the European Hanseatic League in medieval times, by the 17th century homegrown merchants were flourishing on wine, corn, coal, timber and fishing. An international trading port - King's Lynn was second only to London in size.

- St Edmund's Church - and Downham Market were from early times associated with the Benedictine Abbey of Ramsey. It is commonly held that there was a smaller Benedictine house in Downham's Priory Rd. Owing to the close connection between Downham and the Abbey, it seemed reasonable that Ramsey's devotion to the brave local St Edmund should be reflected in the parish of Downham's church dedication. The Feast of Saint Edmund, traditionally held on St Edmund's Day - 20th November, will be held on Sunday 16th this year.

- Downham Market's Signal Box - is one of England's twenty six rarest and best preserved grade II-listed signal boxes, some of which have their origins in the Victorian era! Downham's own box dates back to 1883 and is built of wood blocks cut to resemble stone. In an effort to preserve the traditions of trains and railways - particularly the 'golden age of steam' - Network Rail has joined forces with English Heritage to seek out the best examples of the 500 hundred or so remaining signal boxes in use.

- The Downham Market and King's Lynn 2014 Calendar - was a natural progression from last year's Downham Market 2013 Calendar. While there are certainly the obvious landmarks to draw and paint, I didn't need to look far into rich local history to see an absolute wealth of interesting and fascinating buildings to draw. If you've enjoyed this calendar, and would like to see more in the future - and have your own ideas on what would make an interesting theme, such as traditional shops and services, buildings which features cats and dogs, a village by village journey from Downham to Lynn or Ely, or anything else - please let me know. Look forward to hearing from you. Call 07986 555006 or email andy@andyscordellis.co.uk

The East Anglian Air Ambulance - A tragic Newmarket aircraft accident in 2000 led to fund raising for an air ambulance service for the region. The appeal was launched by top jockey Frankie Dettori, who had been a passenger on the plane crash a couple of months earlier. There being no air ambulance service at the time, casualties were flown by aircraft to Addenbrookes Hospital. The EAAA needs regular donations to maintain this much needed first class service. Please visit www.eaaa.org.uk to see how you can help.
